The 2019 New Mexico Conference on the Link Between Animal Abuse and Human Violence will be held September 9 & 10, 2019. Participants from around the region will come together to learn about the “The Link” and what they can do to break that link in our society. The conference seeks to educate and train those from various anti-violence organizations on the cycle of violence in our society impacting both people and animals. Additionally, the conference aims to promote and facilitate cooperative action within New Mexico’s communities so that we can respond promptly to incidents of animal cruelty and human violence and assist all victims immediately.

Participants in the conference include animal control officers, law enforcement officers, domestic violence workers, social workers, staff from NM Children Youth and Families Division, elected officials, veterinarians, teachers, judges, lawyers, therapists, animal advocates, child advocates and other interested parties.

Travel scholarships are provided to police officers, animal control officers, domestic violence workers and child welfare workers from rural areas of New Mexico.
